SAPIRO TO SPEAK IN OPERA HOUSE

So Great Crowd of Tobacco Men
May Hear Him Explain His Plan Here

Tobacco growers from all over Madison and many adjoining counties are expected to be here Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock when Aaron Sapiro, marketing expert, will explain the plan which is believed to be the salvation of the tobacco industry in Kentucky. He and Judge Robert W. Bingham, of the Courier-Journal, will both speak here.

On account of the large crowd that is expected, the local committee, has secured the opera house, and the speaking will be held there instead of at the court house, which could not accommodate half the crowd that is expected.

Contracts have been received here and will be distributed to the growers after Mr. Sapiro and Judge Bingham have thoroughly explained the proposition, and what it means to the growers of Kentucky.

Through the kindness of Judge Bingham and the Courier-Journal, the Richmond Daily Register will on Tuesday distribute a four-page section of the paper, in which will appear Mr. Sapiro's speech and plan in full. This will be sent out to every subscriber of the Daily Register, and is worth reading.

Mr. Sapiro will go from here to Versailles by auto to speak there Tuesday night. He also speaks this week at Shelbyville, Cynthiana, Maysville and Lexington.

C. L. Walters, Shelbyville, and Stanley Reed, Maysville, have added to the state organization committee.

Judge Robert W. Bingham, chairman of the committee, will substitute for Mr. Sapiro at a meeting to be held in Danville Friday.

Selling orders came from the middle west and southwest centers which are feeling the effect of the commercial and industrial depression.

MADISON HAS SENT 63 CHILDREN TO HOME

Her life, as though guided by a fairy godmother, became a confusion of destinies for Evelyn when she set foot in the Pullman car that was scheduled to take her to a comfortable home in the mountains. She was to become the daughter of a mountain farmer, they told her at the Kentucky Children's Home Society, Louisville, but the fairy godmother, instead made Evelyn the devoted daughter of a wealthy couple east of Lexington.

Her fairy life began when she was committed to the Kentucky Children's Home by a County Judge, a little curly headed tot with a dimpled chin and big blue eyes. Her parents had been unable to provide a home for her and Evelyn was just beginning to love all her 150 little brothers and sisters when an application from a mountain farmer for a little daughter was approved and Evelyn assigned to become his child.

It was a long trip to her new father and the agent of the Children's Home had taken a Pullman. Evelyn's big blue eyes roamed the car for a responsive smile, when they alighted on a couple directly behind her.

A streak of sunlight through the window turned her brown curls to a burnished gold and then fate got busy.

Evelyn smiled with her lips and with her eyes; her whole being seemed to radiate love as the woman feasted her eyes on the lovely vision of childhood before her. The agent was reading and did not notice the passage of glances between the woman and child.

"Do you like to ride?" the woman asked. Evelyn nodded. "Where are you going?" she continued.

"They are going to give me away," said Evelyn, to the amazement of her audience.

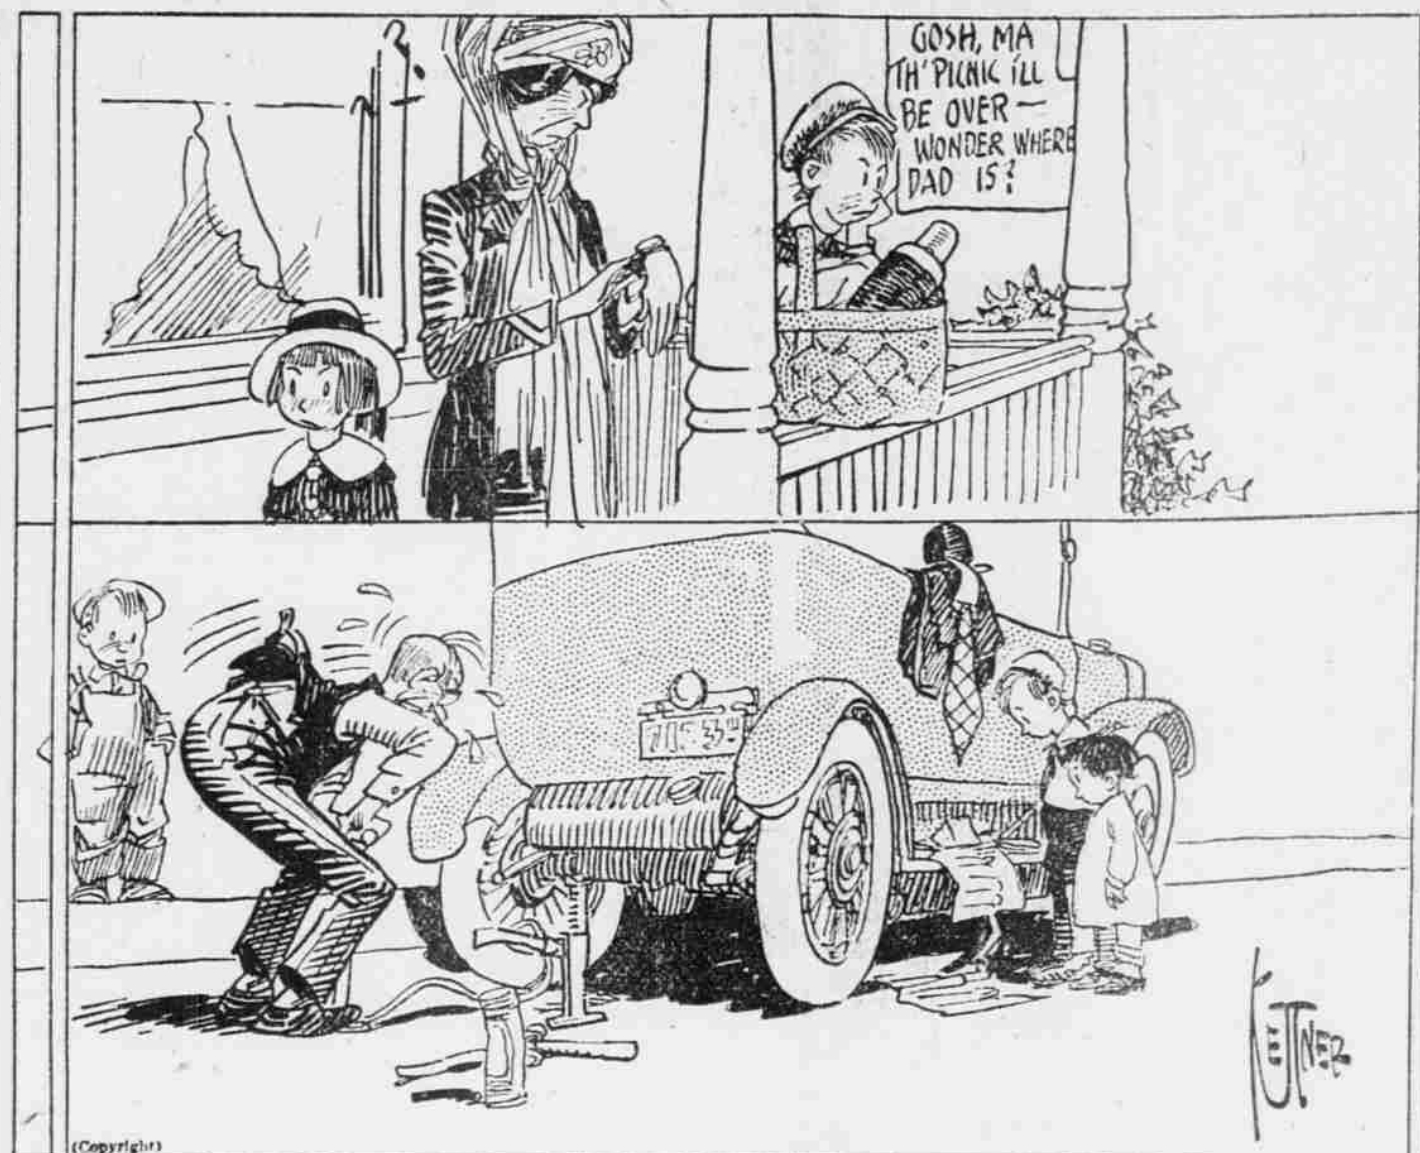

The agent for the Children's Home laughed. "You were going to give her away," he said. Then realizing the woman behind mistook him for some cruel father, he explained that the little girl was a ward of the Kentucky Children's Home Society and was going to find a home in the family of a mountain farmer.

The woman begged and pleaded for Evelyn. She told him who she was and produced papers in identification. Her's was a famous name and meant that Evelyn would become the adopted daughter of a wealthy couple.

He got in touch with George L. Sehon, Superintendent of the Home, and made arrangements whereby Evelyn entered the family of luxurious wealth instead of the little mountain home.

From Madison county 63 children have been committed to the Kentucky Children's Home since

The Port of Missing Men

WHO ARE PRETTIEST GIRLS IN RICHMOND?

Here's a chance for you to get into the movies. Miss Anna Bel Ward, manager of the local theatres, is co-operating in the Movie Weekly's "Screen Face Contest," who have offered to send the fortunate lady to Los Angeles, and will pay all expenses of the trip. She will be given an engagement in Mr. Willat's (the big producer) productions, and will receive a salary for the period of her engagement.

The contest is based upon the fact that practically every young woman, deep in her heart, has a longing to become a movie star with a salary of $100,000 per week in some large production. Every town takes pride in its young women and Richmond will prove no exception. Three delegates will be chosen from this city, whose photographs will be sent to headquarters, and an impartial list of six judges will examine the thousands of photographs, pick out the best looking one, and she will be accepted as the winner of the contest.

Richmond possesses many beautiful faces. Why should she not have an equal chance in this "Beauty Face Contest?" Miss Ward is going to see that she has this chance, and it's up to the cool lookers of the county to mail her their photographs, and the three delegates will be chosen through the means of a popularity contest. Ballots will be given with each admission ticket, and you may vote for your favorite from the first day of the contest, which starts Wednesday, June 15th, and closes June 30. Watch for the big announcement in the Daily Register tomorrow.

WISCONSIN GOVERNOR ATTACKS DRY LAW

Madison, Wis., June 13—Gov. Blaine stepped into the Wisconsin prohibition controversy again today when he attacked the Olson home brew amendment to his enforcement bill, passed by the Senate Friday as intolerable espionage on the home and which fritters away public money to prosecute good citizens who have no wrongful intentions. He asserted a person who possesses ferment grape or apple juice is placed by the Olson amendment on the same basis as an outlawed distillery. He asserted the federal government could invade such homes if it saw fit but the state would not appropriate money for that purpose.

His organization 25 years ago and in that time only $2,192 has been donated by the fiscal court.

The Children's Home Society now is building its cottage village at Lyndon, Ky., which it expects to move into by October. This village, in the eighty six acre tract, will cost $300,000, the quota assigned to Madison county being $5,000 of which $1,250 has been raised.

RICHMOND LOSES TO FORD AT BOONESBORO

A big crowd gathered at Boonesboro ball grounds Sunday afternoon and saw the Ford team defeat a team made up of Richmond players, by a score of 8 to 5. The game was featured by the inability of the Richmond batters to hit either of the two opposing pitchers, Pergman and Cecil Elkin, the latter a hero of the world war, having been gassed and shot to pieces by the Huns. However, there's no telling how good a game he might have played had he been in first class shape. C. Johnson, at short for Ford, was also a bear, playing the game like a big leaguer and peeling off four safe hits out of four times up, a perfect batting average for the day. The Richmond boys, a number of whom have distinguished themselves in games at home seemed to have an off day. They put up a very ragged defense and the hot sun or something certainly dimmed their batting eyes. Charley Rogers pitched a nice game but lost out through inferior support. The score:

JUDGE MURRAY SMITH ASKS ENDORSEMENT

Announcement is made today by Police Judge G. Murray Smith of his candidacy for renomination and re-election by the Democratic party, subject to the primary on August 6th.

It is no exaggeration to say that Judge Smith has made one of the best Police Judges the city of Richmond has ever known. Fearless in the discharge of his duty, bending to the line, he has yet tempered justice with mercy when mercy was deserved, and aided by a splendid police department which he has made Richmond one of the cleanest cities of its size anywhere in the state or the country.

Judge Smith has ever dealt kindly with the poor, ignorant, and friendless, and those who have followed the records of the police court will agree that his kind methods have secured better results than harsh, arrogant or vindictive treatment might have done. In his formal announcement, Judge Smith says:

To the Democratic Voters,
Richmond, Ky.

I take this opportunity to ask at your hands the nomination for the office of Police Judge of the city of Richmond, Ky. I have been the police judge for nearly four years. During that time it has been my effort to conduct that office without fear or favor. I have, with the hearty co-operation of the police department, done all in my power to stamp out the whisky traffic, and the carrying of concealed deadly weapons. These two offenses being the chief missionaries of crime.

If I have conducted the office as you think best, I will appreciate your endorsement, and I assure you that, if elected, it will be my effort to continue my policy outlined above.

Most respectfully,
G. MURRAY SMITH.
